The Armorite camera lens protector from ESR, made of tempered glass, provides reliable protection for your device. The glass precisely covers the entire surface of the lenses, ensuring effective protection against scratches, cracks, and other mechanical damage, keeping your camera in perfect condition. The raised edge significantly reduces the risk of damage. The product offers military-grade protection, guaranteeing durability and reliability.

Thanks to its high transparency and anti-reflective coating, the protector does not affect photo quality, maintaining clarity and reducing glare. Installation and removal of the protector are quick and easy, allowing for convenient use without worries about damage.
