The Tough Armor "T" Mag case by Spigen is an enhanced version of its predecessor. The case is equipped with a magnetic ring compatible with the mounting system and MagSafe wireless charging, providing quick and easy use of Apple technology.

Its two-part construction is made of abrasion-resistant thermoplastic material and a reinforced polycarbonate frame. Inside the case, there is a filling made of technological foam that provides an additional layer of protection against impacts or drops of the device.

The case is perfectly fitted and does not restrict wireless charging capabilities. The slightly raised form around the camera and screen protects it from scratches, lifting the phone just above flat surfaces. It has button covers and cutouts for ports.

The Tough Armor "T" features a specially designed protective button that works seamlessly with the camera control function. The button cover is touch-sensitive, ensuring excellent responsiveness while maintaining full functionality.

Tough Armor, is a case that has undergone drop test evaluations 26 times from a height of up to 1.2m, thus receiving the American military certification MIL-STD 810G-516.6.
